Free Post to Care Homes

Lib Dem campaigners are calling on the Royal Mail to allow people to send cards and parcels to loved ones in care homes for free for the rest of the year.

The Coronavirus outbreak has left many of the 400,000 people who live in care homes cut off from contact with their loved ones.

Introducing free postage would be a big comfort for many people - helping family and friends keep in touch during what could be a lonely time.
